A Touching Incident
An incident of a peculiarly touching character occurred yesterday in one of the elevated railroad trains, that brought tears to the eyes of the passengers. The train had just left 125th street when the passenger saw entering the car a little boy about six years old, half carried by an older boy, evidently his brother. Both were well dressed, but at first glance it was seen that the little fellow was blind. He had a pale, wan face, but was smiling. A quick look of sympathy passed over the faces of the passengers, and an old gray-haired gentleman got up and gave his seat to the two. The "big brother," who was about 11 years old, tenderly lifted up the little blind boy and placed him on his knee.

"How's that?" he asked.
"Nice," said the little chap. "Where's my 'monica'?"

This puzzled some of the passengers, and several turned to see what the child meant. But the "big brother" knew, and immediately drew out a small mouth harmonica and placed it in the little fellow's hand. The little fellow took the instrument to his thin lips, ran it across his lips, and began to play softly. "Nearer, my God, to Thee" Tears came into the eyes of the old gentlemen who had given up his seat, and as the little fellow played on, running into "Rock of Ages," and "Abide with Me," there were many moist eyes in the car.

They rushed along, the passengers later, and the little fellow played on the harmonica, never missing a note of "Annie Laurie" or "Home, Sweet Home." Finally the "big brother" leaned down and told the little one to get ready to leave, as the train was nearing their station. Then, as if he knew he had won a whole car-load of friends, the blind boy quickly changed "The Swanee River" to "Auld Lang Syne," and with one accord the passengers burst into a round of applause, while the "big brother" carried the little one out of the car—New York Times.

Lo's DECK OF CARDS.—Captain E. W. Kingsbury, of Kansas City, is at home for a short stay from the San Carlos Indian Reservation, where he is a post trader. The San Carlos Reservation is a valley one hundred miles square, situated at the juncture of San Carlos and Gila rivers in Arizona. About five thousand Indians are cared for by the Government on this reservation. As soon as poor Lo gets his hands on a week's provision or extra blanket, he sits down on the ground and proceeds to gamble; then away.

"By the way," said Capt. Kingsbury, "did you ever see their playing cards?" and with the remark he handed out a deck, which he said had been made by Indians. The faces and spots were copied after the Mexican monte playing cards and were put on with some bright durable paint. They looked as if made of mica or possibly thin bone, but Captain Kingsbury, being asked as to the material, said:

"Well, you know how an Indian makes everything durable, and you know what a varied use he makes of rawhide."

The listener, who had been gracefully shuffling the cards, suddenly held them between a finger and thumb.

"Now, you see," continued Capt. Kingsbury, "horse-hide or beef would be too thick, and it is reported that such things are manufactured from the exterior covering of prisoners—in other words, tanned white men's skin."—Kansas City Times.

A DESPERATE FIGHT—A party of six, armed with Winchester and led by a man named Day, from Haran, Ky., entered the town of Cumberland Gap, near Middleborough, on Wednesday, and stated that they came to clean out the town. They visited all the saloons in the place and soon all were furiously drunk. At the last saloon they visited Day, with a Winchester, left the party and proceeded up the mountain side, where he met Deputy Sheriff Williams, of Claiborne county, Tenn., and Adam Tigere. Upon seeing them he turned back, but the tiger refused to work. Tigere then drew his revolver and fired, the first shot taking effect in Day's chest. Day still kept working at the trigger, when another shot from Tigere took effect in Day's chest, felling him to the ground and causing him to drop his gun. Crawling to where he lay he seized the gun and resting it upon a stump fired. Then a perfect fusillade of shots between the parties ensued, which resulted in Day receiving fatal wounds. Tigere was probably fatally wounded. Tigere is a quiet and peaceable citizen, but has a record of killing three men in self defense. Day has a bad reputation.

MEDICINAL.

Wake Up.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes eat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.
